PERSONAL EXPENSE TRACKER

PROBLEM STATEMENT

As users, we encounter numerous challenges on a regular basis. Money is the most crucial aspect of daily life, and without it, we cannot survive for even one day. However, if we keep track of all financial information, we can solve this issue.

Advertising is the biggest issue with most cost tracking software. Only one particular currency is supported by the current system. The key takeaway from this system that came to mind is to modify the currency options so that customers from different nations won't have the same issue that they do in the existing system.

The majority of expense manager software didn't permit using different bank accounts. Because there isn't a full tracking system,The burden of relying on the daily entry of expenses and total projection to the end of the month is continual.

The primary goal of this project is to assist the user in maintaining all financial operations, such as an automatic digital diary. The user of this application can stay out of tight financial situations and avoid unforeseen costs.
